Coach Al Barth, Senior Master Vance Richardson, Bursar Wilbur Myers, the ski team and many other students are preparing to host the annual State Class AA Ski Meet at Gould Academy, Friday and Saturday, Class AA is the highest classification for ski teams, based upon past performance and experience rather than on size of school or regional divisions. Six schools will be entered in the meet: last year's Class AA State champions, Edward Little of Auburn; last year's second place team, Gould Academy; Farmington High, Stephens High of Rumford, Mexico High, and Kents Hill Academy.

The alpine events will be held Friday at Sunday River Skiway. Giant Slalom is scheduled to begin at 9:30 and Slalom at 1:00 p. m.

Nordic events are scheduled for Saturday with jumping at Swan's Corner at 10:00. Cross-country starts at 2:00 on the Academy's course, which begins and finishes at the Gould field house. All contestants and coaches meet in Bingham Gym at the close of the meet for awards and refreshments.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The town office is preparing for the annual town meeting to be held March 6. Auditors from the State Department of Audit have completed their work and have returned to the town a report of their findings. It would appear the town has done quite well in 1966. Town reports will be distributed as soon as they can be compiled and printed.

The office is closed Saturdays except by appointment. An exception will be Feb. 25 when it will be open to receive excise taxes. Anyone who has not paid the excise on their vehicles should do so as the Feb. 28 deadline is drawing near.

THREE MAINE COMMUNITIES WIN CLEAN-UP AWARDS

Honors won by three communities for their cleanup efforts reflect the growing citizen interest in the appearance of Maine cities and towns, the coordinator of the Keep Maine Scenic program said this week.

Paul K. McCann joined in praising Rockland, Calais, and Fort Fairfield.

Rockland and Calais won distinguished achievement awards in the National Cleanest Town Achievement Award Contest and Fort Fairfield earned honorable mention. The contest is annually sponsored by the National Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up Bureau.

"It's Maine's best showing in memory," McCann said. "I think it points up again that last year's statewide campaign was the most successful in history. Nearly 150 communities participated."

Dates for the 1967 campaign will be announced shortly, McCann added.

CONGREGATIONAL COUPLES CLUB TO FEATURE A. F. S. SPEAKER MONDAY, FEB. 13

The American Field Service was founded during World War I as a volunteer ambulance service. Not until 1947 did the AFS ambulance drivers initiate the winter program in which students from abroad came to live for a year with families in the U. S. and study in our secondary schools. In 1952 the program was expanded so that American students could share a similar opportunity abroad.

Last year Maine sent seventy students abroad and received one hundred forty four here. To sponsor an AFS student a school must be interested in accepting the student, tuition free, a Chapter formed to watch over the student and handle AFS matters in the community, a suitable family chosen to take the student in as a member of the family, without pay, during the year and funds raised. It is, thus, a cooperative effort of the community, its schools, students and interested public who wish to open their doors to friendship among peoples.

It has been suggested that Bethel would be an ideal area in which to sponsor a foreign student. Anyone, children as well as adults, interested in hearing Ralph D. Brooks speak on AFS is invited to the Garland Memorial Chapel, Congregational Church at 7:45, Monday, February 13. Mr. Brooks is President of the Yarmouth Chapter of American Field Service. He is bringing with him Thomas Alinsworth who spent a year as an AFS student in Australia.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY INITIATION AT GOULD ACADEMY

The highest academic and citizenship recognition for any high school student is to be chosen for the National Honor Society, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary Principals. The rules for membership limit the candidates to those who are in the top 25% of the senior class in academic achievement or those whose average is 85%, whichever is the greater number. Of the eligible candidates in a senior class, membership is limited again to 15% of the total senior class. Juniors whose grades average 85% are also eligible candidates but membership is limited to 10% of the class.

Membership of the Gould Academy chapter is open only to students who are in their second year at least at the Academy. All faculty are asked to vote by written ballot on candidates who have qualified through scholastic achievement described above. In voting, faculty are instructed to consider character, leadership and school service. They must also limit their vote to the prescribed number as set by the quotas already explained.

The initiation of the Gould chapter, held Monday morning in Bingham Hall, was a candlelight service. Seniors elected to the society last year gave original essays on each of the requirements for National Honor Society. Gene Tebbets, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tebbets, Bethel, spoke on Scholarship. David Boudry, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Boudry, Waterville, spoke on Character. Peter Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howard, Orono, spoke on Service. Continued on Page Four

SCHOOL AFFAIRS TO BE DISCUSSED AT BETHEL PTA TUESDAY, FEB. 14

A meeting of the Bethel P. T. A. will be held on Tuesday, February 14th at 7:30 p. m. at Crescent Park School.

Dexter Stowell, Chairman of the Board of Directors for MSAD #44; Ralph K. Ryder, Curriculum Supervisor; and Richard Vaughan, Principal of the District High School, will present a program on the district budget.

Mr. Vaughan will also present a brief talk, with slides, and answer questions, concerning progress of the new high school building.

ENGSTROM TO SPEAK AT SENIOR CITIZENS MEETING NEXT TUESDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens is to be Tuesday, Feb. 14, at the Bethel Congregational Church.

Martin Engstrom, weather man of station WMTW, will give an illustrated lecture on "A Trip Up Mount Washington."

Mrs. Luella Favreau will lead the group singing and Rev. Selendick will be the guest pastor.

NEWRY BUDGET TOTALS $9,045 — EXCLUDING SCHOOL ACCOUNTS

The annual Newry town reports have been received and are being distributed. Some additional copies are available at the town clerk's office or from Arthur E. Gauthier.

Suggested budget for the year for other than school accounts is $9,045.44, which is approximately $5,000 less than the amount appropriated in 1966 for these accounts. The decrease is due to the fact that $6,000 was appropriated last year to purchase highway equipment. No appropriation is asked for this account this year.

School appropriations for 1966 were $17,161.56. There will be some increase in this account this year, also an increase in the county tax is anticipated. However, there should be a slight decrease in the tax rate. Under the present valuation a decrease of $1,000 in appropriations would result in approximately a three mill drop in the tax rate.

The books closed Dec. 31, with $3,573.78 in 1966 taxes uncollected. The sum of $1,045.22 from this amount has been paid since the books closed. Back taxes for $1,522 were collected during the year, leaving $193.55 unpaid. Tax liens held by the town total $290.25, with $493.73 in liens paid during the year.

At the close of books, all accounts either balanced off or showed an unexpended balance. Unexpended balances in all accounts totaled $6,960.00.

All town officers will be candidates for re-election. Roger E. Hanson, chairman of selectmen, who had previously announced that he might not seek re-election has announced that he has reconsidered and will serve if elected. The only announced opposition at this time is from Roy C. Trapp, who is opposing incumbent Arthur E. Gauthier for the post of second selectman.

STATE GAME OFFICIAL ASKS ICE FISHERMEN NOT TO LITTER

The Commissioner of the State Department of Inland Fisheries & Game has joined the Keep Maine Scenic division of the State Park & Recreation Commission in appealing to ice fishermen not to litter.

"If you enjoy Maine's wonderful winters," Commissioner Ronald T. Speers said, "we urge the same good manners in the out of doors that you would expect of visitors in your own backyard."

"Trash left behind by sportsmen contributes to polluting our waters and soiling the natural beauty of our out of doors," he added.

Maine bans littering on the ice over inland or tidal waters. Violators face a penalty of up to $100 if convicted in Maine courts. Wardens of the Inland Fisheries & Game and Sea & Shore Fisheries departments as well as all other law enforcement officials have the authority to enforce the litter law.

ACCOUNT NUMBERS SHOULD MINIMIZE TAX PROCESSING ERRORS SAYS I. R. S.

Although Public Law 87-397 has been on the statute books since October 1961, the law assumes added importance for Maine taxpayers this year because the Internal Revenue Service announced that individual income tax returns will be processed beginning January 1, 1967, under automatic data processing. PL 87-397 provides for the use of taxpayer identification numbers in order to facilitate the Revenue Service's conversion of its processing and records systems to modern high-speed electronic data processing equipment.

Under the new system, it will be more important than ever that each taxpayer's account and related documents be accurately identified. Since many names are alike or may be misspelled on documents from other sources, identification numbers will be used as permanent tax account numbers so that the combination of names and numbers will minimize errors.

already have Social Security numbers, and these same numbers are used for tax purposes. Similarly, nearly every business has an "employer identification number" which is used on social security and income tax withholding returns. These same numbers will be used for identifying all business returns.

Adherence to use of official forms will also become increasingly important as the Internal Revenue Service moves into its automatic data processing program. Because data must be transferred from filed returns into the AIP system, much of the success of its operation depends upon consistent form and sequence in the taxpayer's entries on his return.

FACTS ON IMPLIED CONSENT EXPLAINED

There are facts that the public should know about a measure currently before the 103rd Legislature—a measure dealing with drinking and driving, according to a statement by Peter A. McKenney, executive secretary, Maine Highway Safety Committee.

The Implied Consent bill states that a person must first be arrested before he or she will be asked to take a test showing blood alcohol content.

The very fact that the person has been arrested is far and above a more serious democratic process than the mere taking of a driving license. Being arrested is actually prohibiting the individual of the right to move freely in the society. He is actually deprived of his very basic human right—the right of freedom.

No one would take from our police the power of arrest. It is the very substance of this power that protects our democratic process.

Therefore, the serious fact to be considered is the fact of the arrest itself, not in the subsequent taking of the driver's license. If a police officer has enough evidence to make an arrest, then the taking of the driver's license will only be secondary.

The Implied Consent law has a built-in remedy for those who refuse to take the test and are eventually found not guilty—these people may appeal immediately to get their license back.

Implied Consent is a law designed to protect the average Maine citizen. It is one more tool in the hands of experts to be used as evidence—evidence that will protect innocent drivers. The driver who is opposed to a scientific test may well be the driver who can endanger you on the highways. We cannot, and will not know until we have an Implied Consent law on the books.

The Maine Highway Safety Committee is your agency to get facts and present them to you—the citizen—for your use.

The fact is—Maine needs an Implied Consent law to help reduce accidents, and it needs it right now.

CARD OF THANKS - I want to thank everyone for the many, many cards I received while in the hospital, and since returning home, also for all the fruit, juices, delicious food, and other things that have been brought in to me. Believe me I appreciate having so many people thinking of me.

SKI TIPS

#6 SNOWPLOW TURN

By Ace Manley
 Director, Big Bromley Ski School

After learning how to control speed, the skier is ready to study direction—how to control it and how to change it when he wants to. The natural starting maneuver for this objective is the snowplow turn.

The skier begins in the straight snowplow position in the fall line and transfers his weight toward one ski, which becomes the outside ski of the turn. At the same time, he drops the same outside shoulder of the turn.

The shoulder always moves in the direction opposite the turn. In other words, the left shoulder is dropped for a right turn and the right shoulder dropped for a left turn.

Another way to remember this is: the shoulder is dropped slightly back and over the ski that is pointed in the direction in which the skier wants to turn.

The knee is flexed slightly more forward on this downhill ski, giving a power of direction or turning power to the ski. Nevertheless, the tips of the skis remain in the straight snowplow position. And the body is not twisted in the direction of the turn. The upper body is simply angled over the weighted ski. The hands are held at the side.

When the skier is ready to change direction, he merely rises up slightly, dropping the shoulder back and over the other ski, pointed in the direction of the turn.

ADDED WEIGHT — MORE TRACTION, OLD WIVES' TALE SAYS SAFETY COMMITTEE

The two ideas that you will get better traction in winter driving on ice and snow if you place bags of sand or other weight in the trunk, and that you will have better control if you let some of the air out of your tires are "Old Wives Tales" that motorists should shun, according to Chairman Jack Atwood of the Maine Highway Safety Committee.

"The National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards made exhaustive tests of changes in traction, or pulling power, with weight added to the trunk," Chairman Atwood said. "They found only a very slight increase in traction with 100 pounds of weight added to the trunk of a conventional passenger car."

"The engineers making the tests pointed out that in nearly all cars today, much of the trunk space is behind the rear axle. Therefore any load added to the trunk compartment will decrease the load on the front wheels, thereby reducing steering control. Under slippery conditions this is a very hazardous situation," the traffic safety authority declared, and concluded, "Therefore, while it is true that added weight will increase traction slightly, it isn't worth the risk of reducing steering control."

He also pointed out why the National Safety Council committee recommends that tires should not be deflated in an effort to obtain better traction on ice or snow. The experts found that the added hazard of "mushy" handling offsets any slight increase in traction gained by bleeding air from tires.

"And you have all heard the statement from drivers that 'I can stop on a dime,'" Chairman Atwood said. "Actually you would need over a thousand dimes laid end to end to react and stop at only 25 mph with perfect brakes, good tires and dry pavement. Considering that braking distances on ice may take ten times this distance, the wise driver sharply reduces his speed on slippery pavements and maintains a far greater than usual interval between his car and other traffic."

"If you take care of your car, equip it properly for winter driving, and use common sense in driving, the odds are in your favor to get through the rest of the winter in safety," Atwood concluded.
